Aims of the programme The principal aims of the programme are: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> i. To introduce students to a wide range of perspectives in modern psychology; ii. To introduce students to key conceptual issues and controversies in psychology; iii. To develop students' skills of empirical investigation; iv. To sensitise students to ethical issues and their appropriate resolution in psychological research; v. To develop an understanding of a range of applications of psychology; vi. To develop students' powers of critical analysis and evaluation; vii. To develop students' transferable skills; viii. To encourage independent learning in psychology. You will see from these aims that we wish to emphasise the diversity of psychology and to support your interests, skills and understanding across many areas and facets of the discipline.
Distinctive features of the programme The foundation element of the programme provides an opportunity for you to develop the skills and foundation of knowledge you will need to progress to the final three years of the programme.

Opportunities for: the Graduate Basis for Chartered Membership (GBC) of the British Psychological Society; self-negotiated career development and work-based learning. There is a strong focus on employability skills as well as academic success with all students taking a module dedicated to employability skills in the first year and a work-experience module in the final year. You will also have support throughout your degree from your personal tutor.

The learning environment is characterised by: supportive and approachable staff in psychology with a diverse range of research interests; use of innovative methods of teaching and assessment; dedicated laboratory facilities for work of an experimental nature; and opportunities to study abroad. You will also have the chance to gain additional qualifications (e.g. Level A certificate in occupational testing).

Programme learning outcomes

To gain the qualification you will have demonstrated: i) subject knowledge and understanding ii) cognitive skills iii) discipline-related practical and professional skills and iv) other general skills and capabilities (e.g. key/transferable/common) as specified in the learning objectives/outcomes for approved modules in the programme.

K. Knowledge and understanding

On completion of the programme successful students will be able to demonstrate systematic knowledge and understanding of

1. the scientific orientation central to the discipline and alternatives to it;
2. the key theories, conceptual frameworks, and debates central to the discipline;
3. the range of empirical methods used to study human behaviour and awareness of any limitations associated with their use;
4. a range of applications of psychological theory in contemporary society;
5. the boundaries of psychology and the discipline's relationship with other cognate disciplines;
6. a defined body of psychological knowledge informed by current research, and appreciation of the limits of that knowledge.

C. Cognitive, intellectual or thinking skills

On completion of the programme successful students will be able to demonstrate the capacity:

1. for critical analysis and ability to develop an argument;
2. to employ evidence based reasoning to make informed judgements;
3. for creative thinking;
4. to understand data sets and identify relationships;
5. to generate and explore research questions in a systematic way;
6. for independent learning and problem solving;
7. to apply and integrate findings across multiple perspectives.

P. Practical, professional or subject-specific skills

On completion of the programme successful students will be able to demonstrate the ability to:
1. carry out empirical studies involving a variety of methods of data collection;
2. analyse data using quantitative and qualitative research methods and interpreting the results of the analysis;
3. carry out a systematic search, review and evaluation of psychological research findings (including electronic sources of information);
4. apply critical analysis and evidence based reasoning to current research to identify a focus for further development;
5. design, and execute an original, independent piece of research in an area of psychology having due regard for ethical issues;
6. report research in an appropriate format;
7. show psychological awareness and understanding applicable to a range of situations and careers that can be used to enhance human experience.
T. Transferable, key or personal skills
On completion of the programme successful students will be able to demonstrate the ability to:
1. communicate effectively orally and in writing;
2. problem solve and reason systematically;
3. use numerical and quantitative skills appropriate to carrying out independent research;
4. competently use information technology;
5. engage in self-management including time-management and the willingness to take responsibility for thoughts and actions;
6. engage in independent learning and critical self-reflection as a basis for personal development and life-long learning;
7. engage in supportive peer collaboration and constructive criticism;
8. evaluate strengths and weaknesses and intervene appropriately;
9. reflect upon academic and personal development;
10. evaluate progress and performance in relation to long term academic and career progression.
Programme structure
Modular degree organised on 2 trimesters per year basis.
The programme comprises 480 credits, made from 120 credits each at FE3, HE4, HE5 & HE6. Level FE3 consists of modules covering broad aspects of social science. Level HE4 consists of five 20-credit modules in core Psychology and a 20-credit career management module, Level HE5 consists of six 20-credit modules in core Psychology, and Level HE6 consists of one 40-credit and one 20-credit modules in core psychology and three optional HE6 20-credit modules in Psychology.
The core modules that are required for Graduate Basis for Chartered Membership (GBC) of the BPS include both of the HE5 Research Methods modules, Personality & Developmental Psychology, Cognitive Psychology, Biopsychology, Social and Critical Psychology, and the Honours Project. You will need a degree classification of a 2:2 or better for GBC.

Learning and teaching strategies

The overall teaching and learning strategy for Psychology is 'student centred'. A variety of teaching and learning methods are employed in order to ensure the acquisition and development of appropriate concepts, knowledge and skills and to achieve the stated learning outcomes. Active learning is promoted via: practical classes; laboratory workshops; seminars; tutorials; self-directed study; lectures; video viewing and analysis; IT sessions; and guided study. In addition, for each module, there will be a one-hour session per week where a member of staff will be available to answer any questions and give guidance relating to that module.

We are also committed to a blended learning approach that maximises the strengths of face-to-face learning with a breadth of multimedia e-learning resources. All modules have a presence on Moodle (our Virtual Learning Environment) and all lecture materials as well as additional resources are available to you here. You can also use Moodle to communicate with fellow students on that Module as well as the teaching team.

Learning activities (KIS entry)

Scheduled learning and teaching activities	36%	31%	26%	20%
Guided independent study	64%	69%	74%	75%
Placement/study abroad	0%	0%	0%	5%

Assessment strategy

The obvious and primary function of the proposed assessment strategy is to help you organise and develop your learning and to evaluate your achievement of the stated learning outcomes. Hence assessment tasks are linked to the learning outcomes of each module and are completed at selected points within the module (chosen to facilitate student learning via feedback on the tasks).

Many different forms of module assessment are employed including time-limited examinations (seen or unseen), essays, practical reports, statistical assignments, seminar presentations, portfolios, poster presentations, in-class assessments of various types and project. Much of your assessed work is submitted online via Moodle with feedback also given through the VLE.

In addition to assessed work that contributes to your overall module grade, you will also take part in 'formative assessment'. This is designed to provide you with feedback on your progress and can help you develop your skills and understanding of your own strengths and weaknesses. This formative assessment takes place during lectures and workshops, as well as using activities on Moodle.

Honours Classification

(i) A student will normally be awarded the honours classification resulting from application of the following algorithm:

Rule ACM20

A weighted average of the marks from modules worth a total of 200 credits at Levels HE5 and HE6 combined, including the marks from modules worth no more than 80 credits at least at Level HE5 (weighted 30 percent) and marks from modules worth at least 120 credits at Level HE6 (weighted 70 percent), which represent the best marks achieved by a student at those Levels.

Rule ACM6

Where a student has marks available for 120 credits or less at Level HE6, the honours classification shall normally be based solely on a simple average of the available marks for modules at Level HE6, subject to there being marks for a minimum of 60 credits awarded by the University. Upgrading of the honours classification will not normally be available to students for whom there are marks available for fewer than 120 credits at Level HE6, unless explicitly approved.

Role of external examiners

External examiners are appointed for all programmes of study. They oversee the assessment process and their duties include: approving assessment tasks, reviewing assessment marks, attending assessment boards and reporting to the University on the assessment process.

Support for student learning

- The programme is managed by a programme leader
- Induction programme introduces the student to the University and their programme
- Each student has a personal tutor, responsible for support and guidance
- Personal Development Planning (PDP) integrated into all programmes
- Feedback on formative and summative assessments
- A Student Centre providing a one-stop shop for information and advice
- University support services include housing, counselling, financial advice, careers and a disability
- A Chaplaincy
- Library and IT services
- Student Liaison Officers attached to each Academic Group
- The Students' Union advice services
- Student and Programme Handbooks which provide information about the programme and University regulations
- The opportunity to develop skills for employment
- English language support for International students
- Specialist teaching facilities/resources
