8. demonstrate high levels of proficiency in key skills commensurate with their individual development and professional circumstances
9. develop and feel confident in their own specialist ESOL/Literacy skills

Distinctive features of the programme

The ESOL and Literacy programme develops knowledge and understanding of the structure of the English Language, trainees will study the different ways language can be described and analysed. Learners are also required to examine how these skills relate to social context in the lifelong learning sector. The ESOL and Literacy programme examines the factors which impact/have impacted on learners who have English as both their first and second language and looks at how strategies can be developed to assist learners to develop their personal language skills to Level 2 and above.

What a graduate should know and be able to do on completion of the programme:

The Scheme has a set of core and optional modules. These clarify the Scheme's scope and purpose; teaching and learning methods; learning outcomes etc., informed by national standards as appropriate. Work Based Experience is integral to the course and the modules. The integration of theory and practice is an important theme in the module assignments. Practical teaching is assessed by means of teaching observations which are related to module assessments. The teaching assessments are linked to the Personal and Professional Development (PPD) module.

Trainees who are assessed as successful in each of the modules are inferred to have achieved the Scheme's aims and objectives, since the former is a detailed clarification of the requirements of the latter. Provided there has been no infringement of the University's or Scheme's regulations, such a trainee would normally be recommended to the Teacher Training Assessment Board for a pass in the award for which they were registered.

By the end of their programme of study, trainees will have:

1. Explored educational research and related this to Literacy and ESOL practice.
2. Acquired a secure understanding of the application of their own knowledge to classroom practice.
3. Made informed comment on the applicability, relevance and usefulness of theories, concepts and models, methodologies and techniques applied to practice.

Learning and teaching strategies

A variety of teaching and learning methods are employed throughout the programme in order to ensure the acquisition and development of the appropriate knowledge, understanding, skills and competences in order to achieve the learning outcomes. Some of these will be experienced during formally timetabled classes with your tutor and some will be experienced through workshops, small group and individual practical activities together with structured exercises and discussions. Individual support will be given in tutorials. Blended learning will be utilised as appropriate, for example utilising the VLE to provide an e-forum for trainee teachers to discuss their work and obtain peer support. You will be required to take part in e-discussions with peers and tutors and to make full use of ICT as a source of information and support and to maintain a portfolio of evidence.

It is expected that you will demonstrate significant independence in your study, taking responsibility for the management of your own learning time.

Assessment strategy :
WBE Teaching practice: Formative assessment and feedback will be given on the on-going development and delivery of trainees' teaching via 8 observed teaching sessions.
Course Work: Formative and summative assessment will be given during class and via feedback in tutorials. Trainees will be guided and directed to areas to areas of research and appropriate background reading.
Assessment methods (KIS entry)
A variety of written tasks: written reports, a case study, portfolio submissions, individual and group presentations
Practical Teaching (WBE) : micro teach (PTLLS), 8 successful ESOL/Literacy teaching observations (including 4 graded observations)
Assessment regulations
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Assessment Regulations for Undergraduate Modular Programmes
Grade bands and classifications
(for information only at this stage – the Assessment regulations are being revised for September 12.)
In order for trainees to achieve a 'Pass', all the specific assessment criteria must be addressed and achieved. In addition, the general criteria must be addressed. The following grade descriptors provide the opportunity to recognise the extent to which the trainee has achieved the general criteria for assessment.
Following formal assessment of an assignment, there are, therefore, four possible outcomes – distinction, merit, pass and refer, (in line with the Ofsted grading of 1, 2, 3, 4). 'Refer' indicates that the work submitted is inadequate. Detailed feedback will be provided to enable a second attempt to be made. The maximum grade possible following a second attempt will be a 'pass'. An
