The University of Bolton is a “Teaching Intensive, Research Informed” higher education institution whose distinctive high quality, student-focussed, undergraduate and postgraduate programmes attract students from all over the world.

Our staff are at the heart of everything we do: they are highly qualified and experienced in their fields, supporting their teaching practice by carrying out quality research and engaging in continuous professional development. Staff pride themselves on being outstanding professionals that provide excellent learning, teaching and applied research and support in the provision of custom-designed, industry led courses in numerous subject areas.

We are looking to recruit to a 0.5 FTE lecturer post, with a specialism in sport and exercise Psychology. The duties of the post holder will be in line with the job role and person specification requirements.

We are looking for applicants who can teach exercise psychology at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels. We are particularly looking to receive applications from:

- Candidates that are HCPC registered Sport and Exercise Psychologists (or close to completing their respective training pathways) and have applied experience of working in professional exercise contexts.
- Candidates that have experience of teaching at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels.
- Candidates that have evidence of research performance and research outputs of a high-quality standard.
