Following the appointment of a new Chief Executive the Greater Manchester Business School has ambitious new plans to grow its student numbers and develop new programmes. We are seeking new academic staff to join our already strong team as our student numbers have doubled within the last five years.

The Business School offers a range of programmes in Business, Accountancy and Law.

We are looking to recruit a number of Senior Lecturers and Lecturers in Law. We are specifically interested in academics with experience in one of the following specialisms: international law and common law subjects. The roles will be to support new exciting programmes soon to be launched and our wider portfolio of existing law courses.

We are a 'teaching intensive, research informed' Business School. We are looking for staff who want to bring the latest practices in business onto our courses and are using up to date research. We have ambitions to grow the research our academics undertake and are managing lecturers' workloads to create this space. Our Legal Advice Centre helping local people, has been commended by the Law Society. Our student satisfaction rating – at 91% - is one of the highest in the country. So you will be joining a highly successful team.

You will contribute to the delivery of professional, undergraduate and postgraduate programmes in the Law School, within the Business School. You will support the development of new programmes and short courses.

Registration with an appropriate professional body is a desirable attribute for these roles; along with a first degree and preferably a teaching qualification. A commitment to undertaking or completing a PhD/DBA and membership of the Higher Education Academy is a requirement of the role.

Successful candidates will need to demonstrate up to date awareness of current developments within their specialist area as well as being able to nurture links between courses and real-life businesses.

In return you will be working to build the teaching and research reputation of the new Business School. We have a supportive developmental culture where you will be able to utilise or grow your teaching, research skills and wider professional links.
