The University of Bolton is a “Teaching Intensive, Research Informed” higher education institution whose distinctive high quality, student-focussed, undergraduate and postgraduate programmes attract students from all over the world.

Our staff are at the heart of everything we do: they are highly qualified and experienced in their fields, supporting their teaching practice by carrying out quality research and engaging in continuous professional development. Staff pride themselves on being outstanding professionals that provide excellent learning, teaching and applied research and support in the provision of custom-designed, industry led courses in numerous subject areas.

The School are looking to recruit a Senior Lecturer to lead and teach on the undergraduate and taught postgraduate nursing and midwifery related programmes, leading as appropriate in dedicated areas.

The key duties of the post holder will be to contribute and lead, where appropriate, to commercial income generation activity, and to undertake research and scholarly activity to contribute to the development of new areas in their relevant subject field. The successful candidate would also be expected to have responsibility for the leadership and delivery of teaching, assessment, curriculum development and associated research and enterprise activities.

NMC registration is an essential requirement for this role along with a first degree and preferably a teaching qualification. We are particularly interested in candidates with contemporary experience in midwifery. A commitment to undertaking a PhD and membership of the Higher Education Academy is an essential requirement of the role.
